June 2010

On behalf of the Canadian Centre for Abuse Awareness, I sincerely thank the DOVE 2010 organizers, Aurora Masters Lacrosse, all participants, players and volunteers for your hard work and generosity. We recognize the effort and dedication it takes to coordinate and execute such an endeavour as this marathon event.

The CCAA is also extremely grateful to once again, be a recipient of the event proceeds this year. Our ongoing efforts are made possible by the generosity and support of community-minded individuals that make up groups like DOVE and AML. We utilize funds to continue to strive toward eliminating child abuse and adult victimization through awareness, education and preventative and support programs. Whether through our Public Safety Program and legislative reform, or assistance programs like Women Mentoring Women, DreamBuilds, Derringer's Dream Wishes, Camp Funding, Huggum's Hope Memorial or any of our other 21 programs, everything we do is geared to helping victims of abuse find a brighter day.

We continue our efforts this year in assisting over 130 grass roots agencies nationally including children's services, victims services, shelters and other agencies that deal with children, women and men whose lives have been affected by abuse. That translates to around 200,000 people whose lives we touch across Canada every year just through our assistance to other agencies alone...and we are still growing!

When Martin Kruze came forward with his report of the abuse that took place at Maple Leaf Gardens, he said, "If I can help one person, it will all be worth it." Your support is appreciated more than you can imagine. Your partnership with CCAA keeps us mindful that together...we can make a difference.

Sincerely,
